

DEATH OF A PIONEER.

C. G. Harrison who came to California a few years after the gold rush, died Wednesday night at his residence No. 525 South Pasadena avenue, at the ripe old age of 75. Though not a forty-niner, Mr. Harrison came long before the pioneer days were over and he used to entertain his friends with many stirring tales of the "days of old." He prospered and returned to the east and came to Pasadena about ten years ago, building here one of the prettiest homes of the city where he has lived a quiet life. He gave much of his time and money to the church and was a member of the Board of Trustees of the First Methodist. His wife, son and daughter survive him. The funeral will be held at 4 o'clock Friday afternoon at the residence, Rev. A. W. Lamport, officiating, assisted by Rev. Chaffee. The interment will be in Mountain View Cemetery.
